

Before

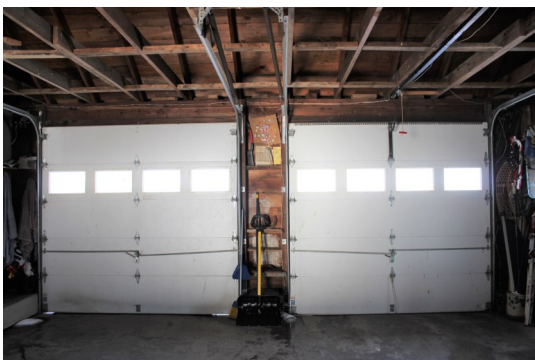

Garage Transformation

This was a project to convert a garage to living space. For this project the owner wanted to remove all of the framing in the ceiling space and open up the ceiling area. It involved adding a ridge beam and other structural support. The concrete slab was left in place and built up with floor joists.

Before

Before

